containing a collection of songs from the musical stage categorized by voice type the selections are presented in their authentic settings excepted from the original vocal scores the relationship between language and music has much in common rhythm structure sound metaphor exploring the phenomena of song and performance this book presents a sociolinguistic model for analysing them based on ethnomusicologist john blacking s contention that any song performed communally is a folk song regardless of its generic origins it argues that folk song to a far greater extent than other song genres displays communal or inclusive types of performance the defining feature of folk song as a multi modal instantiation of music and language is its participatory nature making it ideal for sociolinguistic analysis in this sense a folk song is the product of specific types of developing social interaction whose major purpose is the construction of a temporally and locally based community through repeated instantiations this can lead to disparate communities of practice which over time develop sociocultural registers and a communal stance towards aspects of meaningful events in everyday lives that become typical of a discourse community anthony f jahn md internationally acclaimed otolaryngologist and director of medical services at the metropolitan opera in new york offers a
