this book is recommended reading for planners preparing to take the aicp exam in this new book the author bridges the gap between theory and practice the author describes an original approach feedback strategy that builds on the strengths of previous planning theories with one big difference it not only acknowledges but welcomes politics the bogeyman of real world planning don t hold your nose or look the other way the author advises planners but use politics to your own advantage the author admits that most of the time planning theory doesn t have much to do with planning practice these ideas rooted in the planner s real world are different this strategy employs everyday political processes to advance planning trusts planners personal values and professional ethics and depends on their ability to help clients articulate a vision this volume will encourage not only veteran planners searching for a fresh approach but also students and recent graduates dismayed by the gap between academic theory and actual practice the idea of the professional who bridges both research and practice has been largely overlooked and at times even disregarded by the academic and administrative structures that govern activity in higher education today in international higher education the number of students who now engage in mobility and exchange has expanded globally along with the administrative cadre that manages all facets of internationalization and the quickly growing scholarly attention to understanding the phenomenon in this process two distinct professional categories have emerged those who study it and those who do it the scholars and the practitioners practitioners are seen as those who manage the daily logistical flow of students and personnel around the globe while scholars are seen as those who conduct research collect and analyze data and publish findings to inform improve and justify the activity yet this dichotomy is overly simplistic outdated and excludes the large and growing class of hybrid scholar practitioners who now engage regularly in both kinds of activity it is this rapidly growing population of bridge builders that are profiled and discussed in this book through critical essays on the notion of the scholar practitioner and its implication for the further development of international higher education the chapters include detailed analyses from university faculty senior international officers and other high level administrators directors of research centers key leaders from influential professional associations and private organizations managers of study abroad and exchange and graduate students this book launches a much needed dialogue about the perception and reality potential and promise of the scholar practitioner in higher education today it will be of relevance to a wide variety of readers from those within universities and organizations to those who are outside observers of higher education a major and continuing problem for theological education and the practice of christian ministry is how to best achieve a genuine integration between theory and practice theology and experience the key claim of this book is that theological reflection beginning with experience is a method of integration and that pastoral supervision is a vehicle for theological reflection in establishing this claim john paver demonstrates that the model and method have potential to be a catalyst for reform within theological colleges and seminaries three different theological reflection models are developed and critiqued in this book and their capacity to be developed in particular contexts is explored this book does not stop at ministry cultural and personal integration but is bold enough to make recommendations for structural integration within the theological institution
