Crime, Procedure and Evidence in a Comparative and International Context 2008

this edited volume presents the diversity of comparative criminology research in asia and the complex theoretical and methodological issues involved in conducting comparative research with contributors both from the west and the east exploring these questions the editors have created a balanced resource as well as set an agenda for future research the increasing pace of globalization means that researchers should be armed with an understanding of how criminal justice systems work across the world in the past comparative research largely compared western countries to each other or involved researchers from a western perspective examining an asian country with models and theories developed in the west considered to have universal applications this work aims to correct that gap by providing a critical examination of comparative research presenting quantitative and qualitative research data and asking new questions that challenge prevailing research norms and provide an agenda for future research this work will be of interest for researchers across the field of criminology particularly those with an interest in international and comparative research research on or about asia and related disciplines such as sociology demography and social policy this fine collection that goes to the rich distinctiveness of asian criminology the editors have brought together a wonderful collection of authors mainly from the region the distinctiveness of values and relational practices in asia are recurrent themes that are well developed in this book and help us to make sense of patterns of crime and criminal justice in asia john braithwaite australian national university what theoretical methodological and practical issues must we confront in conducting cross cultural studies encompassing western and asian countries comparative criminology in asia discusses these issues and presents exemplary comparative research the introductory chapter and the introduction to each part by the co editors are lucid and highly educational this collection must be required reading for every serious scholar and aspiring graduate student in asian countries so that criminological and criminal justice studies will be brought to a much higher level of sophistication setsuo miyazawa uc Hastings can there be and should there be a distinctive asian criminology what would this involve the answer depends on what one thinks of the universalistic explanatory claims of western criminology will these claims become self fulfilling as these societies add to colonial influences a more deliberate borrowing of criminal justice models and established ways of pursuing discipline of criminology or will a more critical spirit prevail this welcome edited collection by liu travers and chang provides an excellent starting point for reflecting on these and other questions rather than attempting to provide descriptions of the variety of similarities and differences in this region though there are some fascinating case studies of these the focus is even more on exploring the theoretical approaches and methodologies used in comparing institutional and cultural differences by asian criminologists and others david nelken king's college london criminologists can no longer ignore the impact of globalization on the pattern and amount of crime as we experienced recently nor can we ignore the global change of criminal justice policies to deal with crime there is therefore a desperate need to collect data on how crime and criminal justice are influenced by globalization across asian countries on the other hand there are debates on the issue of culture specific vs pan culture theories of crime this collection addresses both issues in an interesting way its publication is timely and welcome chuen jim sheu national taipei university

Comparative Criminal Procedure 1969 basing much of its analysis upon the first systematic empirical study of the french pre trial process this monograph breaks new ground in the field of comparative criminal justice moving away from idealised accounts of judicially supervised investigations it provides a better understanding of the ways in which an inquisitorially rooted criminal process operates in practice and the factors that influence and constrain its development and functioning the structure and operation of french criminal justice is set within a broad range of contexts of political occupational and legal cultures from the french republican tradition of state centred models of authority across the growing influence of the echr to the local conditions which determine the ways in which individual discretion is exercised the french model of investigative supervision and accountability is contrasted with more adversarial procedures and in particular the different ways in which the reliability of evidence is guaranteed and the interests of the accused protected systematic observation of the daily working practices of police gendarmes prosecutors and juges d'instruction across a number of sites and time periods provides a unique and detailed account of the ways in which the french criminal process operates in practice the understandings and insights generated from this data are then set within a wider legal and political analysis which considers issues such as the influence and interference of the state within matters of justice a comparative analysis of the judicial and defence functions and the extent to which echr fair trial guarantees are able to produce legal and ideological change within a process which depends upon a central and judicially supervised investigating authority an informed knowledge of other european criminal procedures is increasingly essential for those working within uk as well as comparative criminal justice if there is to be a proper engagement with and evaluation of measures such as the eus proposed council framework decision on certain procedural rights in criminal proceedings throughout the european union as well as recent legislative reform in england and wales that seeks to adjust the pre trial roles of police and prosecutor in significant ways this book will be essential reading for teachers researchers students and policy makers working in the areas of criminal justice in the uk and across europe in comparative criminal justice criminology as well as in french and european studies

Comparative criminal justice systems 1998 law and justice around the world is designed to introduce students to comparative law and justice including cross national variations in legal and justice systems as well as global and international justice the book draws students into critical discussions of justice around the world today by taking a broad perspective on law and justice rather than limiting its focus to criminal justice systems examining topics of global concern including governance elections environmental regulations migration and refugee status family law and others focusing on a diverse set of global examples from europe north america east asia and especially the global south and comparing the united states law and justice system to these other nations continuing to cover core topics such as crime law enforcement criminal courts and punishment including chapter goals to define learning outcomes sharing case studies to help students apply concepts to real life issues instructor resources include discussion questions suggested readings films and web resources a test bank and chapter by chapter powerpoint slides with full color maps and graphics by widening the comparative lens to include nations that are often completely ignored in research and teaching the book paints a more realistic portrait of the different ways in which countries define and pursue justice in a globalized interconnected world

Comparative Criminal Justice Systems 2012 this book is a comparative study of the exclusion of illegally gathered evidence in the criminal trial which includes 15 country studies a chapter on the european court of human rights and a comparative synthetic conclusion no other book has undertaken such a broad comparative study of exclusionary rules which have now become a world wide phenomenon the topic is one of the most controversial in criminal procedure law because it reveals a constant tension between the criminal court s duty to ascertain the truth on the one hand and its duty to uphold important constitutional rights on the other most importantly the privilege against self incrimination and the right to privacy in one s home and one s private communications the chapters were contributed by noted world experts on the subject for the xviii congress of the international academy of comparative law in washington in july 2010
