approaches to the study of peace and conflict across different humanities and social sciences disciplines peace and conflict studies pcs is one of the major sub disciplines of international studies including political science and international relations and has emerged from a need to understand war related systems and concepts and how to respond to it afterward as a living reference work easily discoverable and searchable the palgrave encyclopedia of peace and conflict studies offers solid material for understanding the foundational historical and contemporary themes concepts theories events organisations and frameworks concerning peace conflict security rights institutions and development the palgrave encyclopaedia of peace and conflict studies brings together leading and emerging scholars from different disciplines to provide the most comprehensive and up to date resource on peace and conflict studies ever produced writing from a variety of contexts the contributors to this volume describe the ways that conflict and their efforts to engage it constructively shape their work in classrooms and communities each chapter begins with a different experience of conflict a physical confrontation shooting and killing ethnic violence a hate crime overt and covert racism structural violence interpersonal conflict in a family and the marginalization of youth the authors employ a variety of theoretical and practical responses to conflict highlighting the role that faith power and relationships play in processes of transformation as these teachers and ministers engage conflict constructively they put forward novel approaches toward teaching training care solidarity and advocacy their stories demonstrate how conflict can serve as a site for positive change and transformation this book explores the topic of peace and the long term survival of the human species drawing on existential risk studies ers the book lays out a theoretical framework for drawing new perspectives and approaches for looking toward the future and addressing existential risks related to the complexity and dynamics of conflict looking at five research lines in peace and conflict studies pcs 1 great powers conflict 2 peace pandemic and conflict 3 climate peace and conflict 4 emerging technologies peace and conflict and 5 totalitarianism the chapters discuss how these lines are defined and discussed how they are understood in ers and what approaches would be beneficial to adapt and integrate into pcs by drawing on ers and grounding the discussion in lines of research that will be important to the field of pcs this book suggests that long term perspectives are needed in the field especially in regard to existential risk and their implications of conflict there are several definitions of conflict before elaborating on the definition that will guide reading the author provides some of the definitions of conflict conflict is defined as derived from social beliefs and involves two or more parties who share incompatible objectives the improbable war explains why conflict between the usa and china cannot be ruled out in 1914 war between the great powers was considered unlikely yet it happened we learn only from history and popular though the first world war analogy is the lessons we draw from its outbreak are usually mistaken among these errors is the tendency to over estimate human rationality all major conflicts of the past 300 years have been about the norms and rules of the international system in china and the us the world confronts two exceptional powers whose values differ markedly with china bidding to challenge the current order the thucydidean trap when a conservative status quo power confronts a rising new one may also play its part in precipitating hostilities to avoid stumbling into an avoidable war both beijing and washington need a coherent strategy which neither of them has history also reveals that war evolves continually the next global conflict is likely to be played out in cyberspace and outer space and like all previous wars it will have devastating consequences such a war between the united states and china may seem improbable but it is all too possible which is why we need to discuss it now the united states is in the throes of two unfolding energy revolutions and partisans convinced that only their side holds the key to american prosperity security and safety are battling over which one should prevail in the power surge michael levi takes readers inside these revolutions he shows how oil and gas production after decades in decline are being propelled upward by new technologies and high prices prompting enthusiasts to predict an economic renaissance and impending energy independence on the other side of the fight he visits eco startups and manufacturers betting on a new energy future revealing how more efficient cars and trucks are increasingly dominating the road and costs for renewable energy have plummeted leading many to herald a starkly different future that moves beyond fossil fuels and saves the planet armed with on the ground lessons and drawing on insights from economics politics international relations and climate science the power surge takes on the big claims made by both sides in the fight over american energy explaining why the purists are often wrong both unfolding revolutions in american energy offer big opportunities for the country to strengthen its economy bolster its security and protect the environment levi shows how to seize those with a new strategy that blends the best of old and new energy while avoiding the real dangers that each poses this volume was first published by inter disciplinary press in 2014 using contexts ranging from personal interactions to topical international events this ebook provides a snapshot of the myriad of challenges that conflict and communication present us with reintegration programmes for ex combatants are supposed to support the wider peace process this study based on detailed fieldwork looks at the way they were carried out in sierra leone and liberia and assesses the degree to which they were conducted in a participatory way how do conflicts escalate this is one of the major questions in conflict research to offer further answers richard bösch follows a tripartite agenda first he develops a constructivist methodology for the study of conflict escalation embedded in a luhmannian systems theoretical world society perspective bösch argues that conflicts can be observed as social systems and he looks at the process of conflict escalation by analysing communication second this analysis offers two case studies the maidan protests in ukraine 2013 2014 and mali s crisis 2010 2012 third it gives insights on how systems theoretical research can be beneficial for peace and conflict studies this book explores the changing tactics technologies and terrains of twenty first century war it argues that the world in 2049 is unlikely to look like the climate change artificial intelligence ai dystopia depicted in blade runner 2049 but nor will it be a world where conflict and war has been transformed by a civilising process that eradicates violence and conflict from the human condition 2049 is also the year that the us department of defense has suggested china will become a world shaping military power all states will be engaged in arms races across a variety of new tools and technologies from drones robotics ai and quantum computing that will transform politics economy society and war drawing on thinkers such as zygmunt bauman and paul virilio the book suggests that future war will be shaped by three broad tendencies that include a broad range of tactics technologies and trends the impure the granular and the machinic through discussions of cybersecurity urban war robotics ai climate change science fiction and new strategic concepts it examines how these tendencies might evolve in the different geopolitical futures and types of war ahead of us the book provides a thought provoking and distinctive framework through which to think about the changing character of war it concludes that for all the novel and dangerous challenges ahead the futuristic possibilities of warfare will likely continue to be shaped by problems familiar to students of international relations and the history of war albeit problems that will play out in geopolitical and technological contexts that we have never encountered before this book will be of much interest to students of critical war studies security studies science and technology studies and international relations in general conducting a lacanian inspired psychoanalysis of some of the most candid interview materials ever gathered from former ira members and loyalists the author demonstrates through a careful examination of their slips of the tongue jokes rationalisations and contradictions that it is the unconscious dynamics of socio ideological fantasy i e the unconscious pleasure people find in suffering domination submission ignorance failure and rivalry over jouissance that lead to the reproduction of antagonism between the catholic and protestant communities in northern ireland this book offers a uniquely comprehensive account of the conflict in northern ireland providing a rigorous analysis of its dynamics and present structure and proposing a new approach to its resolution it deals with historical process communal relations ideology politics economics and culture and with the wider british irish and international contexts it reveals at once the enormous complexity of the conflict and shows how it is generated by a particular system of relationships which can be precisely and clearly described the book proposes an emancipatory approach to the resolution of the conflict conceived as the dismantling of this system of relationships although radical this approach is already implicit in the converging understandings of the british and irish governments of the causes of conflict the authors argue that only much more determined pursuit of an emancipatory approach will allow an agreed political settlement to emerge a provocative and urgent analysis of the u s china rivalry it has become conventional wisdom that america and china are running a superpower marathon that may last a century yet hal brands and michael beckley pose a counterintuitive question what if the sharpest phase of that competition is more like a decade long sprint the sino american contest is driven by clashing geopolitical interests and a stark ideological dispute over whether authoritarianism or democracy will dominate the 21st century but both history and china s current trajectory suggest that this rivalry will reach its moment of maximum danger in the 2020s china is at a perilous moment strong enough to violently challenge the existing order yet losing confidence that time is on its side numerous examples from antiquity to the present show that rising powers become most aggressive when their fortunes fade their difficulties multiply and they realize they must achieve their ambitions now or miss the chance to do so forever china has already started down this path witness its aggression toward taiwan its record breaking military buildup and its efforts to dominate the critical technologies that will shape the world s future over the long run the chinese challenge will most likely prove more manageable than many pessimists currently believe but during the 2020s the pace of sino american conflict will accelerate and the prospect of war will be frighteningly real america brands and beckley argue will still need a sustainable approach to winning a protracted global competition but first it needs a near term strategy for navigating the danger zone ahead this book examines the role of economic aid in the management and resolution of protracted ethnic conflicts focusing on the case study of northern ireland the book describes the results of a study of the role of economic aid within northern ireland through the viewpoints of citizens collected in an opinion poll as well as community group leaders whose projects received funding funding agency civil servants and development officers the study explains the importance of economic and social development in promoting cross community contact as well as within single identity communities and the need for a multitrack intervention approach to transform the conflict in northern ireland it makes an important contribution to our understanding of how economic assistance impacts on a divided society with a history of protracted violence and provides important perspectives on the peace through development idea one of the key unanswered questions relating to economic aid and preventing future violence is that of the significance of external economic aid in building peace after violence by examining the respondents political imagery this book expands on existing work on economic aid and peace building in other societies coming out of violence northern ireland s changing social economic and political context reflects the fact that economic aid and sustainable economic development is a cornerstone of the peacebuilding process the goal of the book is to provide a foundational knowledge base for students and practitioners about the role of economic aid in building the peace dividend in post accord societies the book will be of great interest to students of conflict resolution peacebuilding irish politics peace and conflict studies and politics and ir in general cover half title title page copyright page dedication table of contents preface abbreviations part i rethinking democratic practice introduction democracy and equality 1 democracy otherwise rethinking democratic practice part ii specific sites for practicing equality 2 heritage democracies indigenous equality in practice 3 democracies from below subaltern equality in practice 4 popular democracies popular equality in practice 5 global democracies global equality in practice part iii concrete outcomes of equality in practice 6 everyday democracies daily equality in practice conclusion equality in practice appendix 1 countermeasures against inequality appendix 2 resources for equality in practice index the improbable war explains why conflict between the usa and china cannot be ruled out in 1914 war between the great powers was considered unlikely yet it happened we learn only from history and popular though the first world war analogy is the lessons we draw from its outbreak are usually mistaken among these errors is the tendency to over estimate human rationality all major conflicts of the past 300 years have been about the norms and rules of the international system in china and the us the world confronts two exceptional powers whose values differ markedly with china bidding to challenge the current order the thucydidean trap when a conservative status quo power confronts a rising new one may also play its part in precipitating hostilities to avoid stumbling into an avoidable war both beijing and washington need a coherent strategy which neither of them has history also reveals that war evolves continually the next global conflict is likely to be played out in cyberspace and outer space and like all previous wars it will have devastating consequences such a war between the united states and china may seem improbable but it is all too possible which is why we need to discuss it now this book explores the changing tactics technologies and terrains of twenty first century war it argues that the world in 2049 is unlikely to look like the climate change artificial intelligence ai dystopia depicted in blade runner 2049 but nor will it be a world where conflict and war has been transformed by a civilising process that eradicates violence and conflict from the human condition 2049 is also the year that the us department of defense has suggested china will become a world shaping military power all states will be engaged in arms races across a variety of new tools and technologies from drones robotics ai and quantum computing that will transform politics economy society and war drawing on thinkers such as zygmunt bauman and paul virilio the book suggests that future war will be shaped by three broad tendencies that include a broad range of tactics technologies and trends the impure the granular and the machinic through discussions of cybersecurity urban war robotics ai climate change science fiction and new strategic concepts it examines how these tendencies might evolve in the different geopolitical futures and types of war ahead of us the book provides a thought provoking and distinctive framework through which to think about the changing character of war it concludes that for all the novel and dangerous challenges ahead the futuristic possibilities of warfare will likely continue to be shaped by problems familiar to students of international relations and the history of war albeit problems that will play out in geopolitical and technological contexts that we have never encountered before this book will be of much interest to students of critical war studies security studies science and technology studies and international relations in general conducting a lacanian inspired psychoanalysis of some of the most candid interview materials ever gathered from former ira members and loyalists the author demonstrates through a careful examination of their slips of the tongue jokes rationalisations and contradictions that it is the unconscious dynamics of socio ideological fantasy i e the unconscious pleasure people find in suffering domination submission ignorance failure and rivalry over jouissance that lead to the reproduction of antagonism between the catholic and protestant communities in northern ireland

Promotion Fitness Examination study guide 2003

this book offers a uniquely comprehensive account of the conflict in northern ireland providing a rigorous analysis of its dynamics and present structure and proposing a new approach to its resolution it deals with historical process communal relations ideology politics economics and culture and with the wider british irish and international contexts it reveals at once the enormous complexity of the conflict and shows how it is generated by a particular system of relationships which can be precisely and clearly described the book proposes an emancipatory approach to the resolution of the conflict conceived as the dismantling of this system of relationships although radical this approach is already implicit in the converging understandings of the british and irish governments of the causes of conflict the authors argue that only much more determined pursuit of an emancipatory approach will allow an agreed political settlement to emerge a provocative and urgent analysis of the u s china rivalry it has become conventional wisdom that america and china are running a superpower marathon that may last a century yet hal brands and michael beckley pose a counterintuitive question what if the sharpest phase of that competition is more like a decade long sprint the sino american contest is driven by clashing geopolitical interests and a stark ideological dispute over whether authoritarianism or democracy will dominate the 21st century but both history and china s current trajectory suggest that this rivalry will reach its moment of maximum danger in the 2020s china is at a perilous moment strong enough to violently challenge the existing order yet losing confidence that time is on its side numerous examples from antiquity to the present show that rising powers become most aggressive when their fortunes fade their difficulties multiply and they realize they must achieve their ambitions now or miss the chance to do so forever china has already started down this path witness its aggression toward taiwan its record breaking military buildup and its efforts to dominate the critical technologies that will shape the world s future over the long run the chinese challenge will most likely prove more manageable than many pessimists currently believe but during the 2020s the pace of sino american conflict will accelerate and the prospect of war will be frighteningly real america brands and beckley argue will still need a sustainable approach to winning a protracted global competition but first it needs a near term strategy for navigating the danger zone ahead
