temples are the most prestigious buildings in the urban landscape of ancient italy emerging within a network of centres of the then known mediterranean world notwithstanding the fragmentary condition of the buildings remains these monuments and especially their richly decorated roofs are crucial sources of information on the constitution of political social and craft identities acting as agents in displaying the meaning of images the subject of this volume is thematic and includes material from the eastern mediterranean including greece and turkey contributors discuss the network between patron elites and specialized craft communities that were responsible for the sophisticated terracotta decoration of temples in italy between 600 and 100 bc focusing on the mobility of craft people and craft traditions and techniques asking how images iconographies practices and materials can be used to explain the organization of ancient production distribution and consumption special attention has been given to relations with the eastern mediterranean greece and anatolia investigating craft communities workshop organizations and networks has never been thoroughly undertaken for this period and region nor for this exceptionally rich category of materials or for the craftspeople producing the architectural terracottas papers in this volume aim to improve our understanding of roof production and construction in this period to reveal relationships between main production centres and to study the possible influences of immigrant craftspeople nelson fausto the greek myth of prometheus with its picture of a vulture feasting on its chained victim has traditionally provided a visual image of liver regeneration it is a powerful and frightening representation but if one were to substitute the vulture by a surgeon and prometheus by a patient laying on a properly prepared operating table the outcome of the procedure would not differ significantly from that described by greek poets yet few of us who work in the field have stopped long enough to ask where this myth originated did the poet observe a case of liver regeneration in a human being was it brilliant intuition or perhaps literally just a gut feeling of a poet looking for good rhymes that led to the prediction that livers grow when part of the tissue is removed this book does not attempt to solve these historical issues it does instead cover in detail some of the major modern themes of research on liver regeneration injury and repair as indicated in dr n bucher's chapter the modern phase of experimental studies on liver regeneration started in 1931 with the publication by higgins and anderson of a method to perform a two thirds resection of the liver of a rat the technique described has 3 remarkable features 1 it is highly reproducible resulting in the removal of 68% of the liver 2 it has minimal if any mortality and 3 it consists only of blood vessel ligation and does not involve cutting through or wounding hepatic tissue the twelve monumental silver gilt standing cups known as the aldobrandini tazze constitute perhaps the most enigmatic masterpiece of renaissance european metalwork topped with statuettes of the twelve caesars the tazze are decorated with marvelously detailed scenes illustrating the lives of those ancient roman rulers the work s origin is unknown and the ensemble was divided in the nineteenth century and widely dispersed greatly hampering study this volume inspired by a groundbreaking symposium at the metropolitan museum of art examines topics ranging from the tazze s representation of the ancient world to their fate in the hands of nineteenth century collectors and presents newly discovered archival material and advanced scientific findings the distinguished essayists propose answers to critical questions that have long surrounded the set and shed light on the stature of renaissance goldsmiths work as an art form establishing a new standard for the study of renaissance silver for centuries now visual communication design has celebrated national identities through the now iconic identity systems developed for the olympic games for example at the same time as it transcends international borders such as through the far reaching influence of the bauhaus and the international typographic style today of course such transcendence is easier than ever in an era of nearly instantaneous global access enabled by increasingly ubiquitous wireless connections the world seems very small presented in five languagesà english french german italian and spanishâ graphic design translated is a reflection of the increasingly international nature of visual communication design illustrated with examples from around the globe the book is a compilation of more than 200 of the professionâ s most common terms culled from a broad range of categories design history printing and paper typography digital technology and general design practice all of which makes this volume an essential reference for students practitioners clientsâ indeed anybody interested in the global scope of todayâ s visual communication design
