Extracts 1894 in this book i have tried to bring together the major developments in the study of insect populations in tropical environments in some ways this task has been a difficult one because conceptually it is virtually impossible to limit a discussion of insect ecology to the tropics since the same concepts theories and hypotheses concerning the mechanisms by which habitats support insect populations often apply both to temperate and to tropical regions thus one might argue effectively that a book such as peter price s insect ecology represents a more comprehensive treatment of insect ecology including the tropical aspects yet because there has been a tremendous amount of new study on insects in the tropics in recent years and because there has also been a strong historical interest in tropical insects judging from early museum expeditions and medically and agriculturally oriented studies of insects in the new and old world tropics i believe there is a place for a book dealing almost exclusively with tropical insects but logically so such a book by necessity incorporates data and information from temperate zone studies if for no other reason than because insights into the properties of tropical environments often emerge from comparisons of species communities or faunas between temperate and tropical regions an understanding of insect populations in the tropics cannot be divorced from a consideration of temperate zone populations

Population Biology of Tropical Insects 2012-12-06 infant perception from sensation to cognition volume i basic visual processes focuses on the study and programmatic investigations of infant perception examining early sensory perceptual and cognitive systems this book is divided into five chapters chapter 1 analyzes the major physiological and behavioral techniques used to measure infant vision each technique is critically evaluated in terms of the method employed type of data that can be obtained and anatomy of the visual system the neuronal model to explain developmental changes and techniques used to assess infant visual preferences for patterns varying in amount of contour are discussed in chapter 2 chapter 3 demonstrates the value of the corneal reflection technique for the study of infant attention and visual scanning patterns while chapter 4 examines the developmental changes and individual differences in early pattern perception the last chapter concentrates on the evidence of infant visual preferences for novelty and on the implications of such evidence for models of early recognition memory this publication is a good reference for pediatricians and clinicians concerned with infant perception

Astronomical Results from Observations Made at the Royal Observatory, Greenwich, in the Year ... 1915 a history of the enduring essex class ships the us navy s finest and most numerous fleet carrier during world war ii which were modernized repeatedly and served with distinction the essex class was the usn s war winning ship class of the pacific war of the 24 ships completed 14 saw action making the essex class the largest class of fleet aircraft carriers ever built these ships had a fine balance of striking power protection and speed and were modernized during and after the war there were five distinct programs carried out adding not only angled flight decks for jet operations but repeated upgrades to sensors weapons and equipment essex class carriers were used in a number of roles and provided the vast majority of us navy air power in the korean war and a sizeable proportion of air power in the vietnam conflict however as the super carriers began to enter service in the early 1960s the essex class was relegated to secondary roles a single essex carrier served until 1991 as the us navy s training carrier using detailed artwork and photos this book provides an in depth portrait of this important and enduring class of ship and looks at its development and modifications while considering the many and varied actions it took part in
