it is all but impossible to think of september 11th 2001 and not at the same time recall an image the overwhelmingly visual coverage in the world s media pictured a spectacle of terror from images of the collapsing towers to injured victims and fatigued firefighters in the days weeks and months that followed this vast collection of photographs continued to circulate relentlessly this book investigates the psychological impact of those photographs on a stunned american audience drawing on trauma theory this book asks whether the prolonged exposure of audience to photographs was cathartic or damaging it explores how first the collective memory of the event was established in the american psyche and then argues that through repetitive use of the most powerful pictures the culture industry created a dangerously simple 9 11 metanarrative at the same time people began to reclaim and use photography to process their own feelings most significantly in communities of photographic memorial websites such exercises were widely perceived as democratic and an aid to recovery this book interrogates that assumption providing a new understanding of how audiences see and process news photography in times of crisis a silent place death in mycenaean lakonia is the first book length systematic study of the late bronze age lba burial tradition in south eastern peloponnese greece and the first to comprehensively present and discuss all mycenaean tombs and funerary contexts excavated and or simply reported in the region from the 19th century to present day the book will discuss and reconstruct the emergence and development of the mycenaean mortuary tradition in lakonia by examining the landscape of death the burial architecture the funerary and post funerary customs and rituals and offering patterns over a longue durée the author proposes patterns of continuity from the middle bronze age even the early bronze age in terms of burial architecture to the lba and equally important from the late bronze age to the early iron age and reconstructs diachronic processes of invention of tradition and identity in mycenaean communities on the basis of tomb types and their material culture the text highlights the social political and economic history of late bronze age lakonia from the evolution of the mycenaean civilisation and the establishment of palatial administration in the spartan vale to the demise of mycenaean culture and the turbulent post collapse centuries as reflected by the burial offerings the book also brings to publication the chamber tombs at epidavros limerá that remained largely unpublished since their excavation in the 1930s and 1950s epidavros limerá was one of the most important prehistoric coastal sites in prehistoric southern greece early 3rd late 4th millennium bc and one of the main harbour towns of the mycenaean administrative centres of central lakonia it is one of very few mycenaean sites that flourished uninterruptedly from the emergence of the mycenaean civilisation until after the collapse of the palatial administration and into the transition to the early iron age the present study of the funerary architecture and of the pottery from the tombs suggests that the site was responsible for the introduction of the chamber tomb type on the greek mainland in the latest phase of the middle bronze age definitely no later than the transitional middle bronze age late bronze age period and not in the early phase of the late bronze age late helladic i as previously assumed the conference timetable had to be so arranged as to spread the main topics over several separate sessions it was therefore decided to publish the material in these proceedings under nine subject headings irrespective of session within each chapter which is preceded by a list of the sessions featuring the subject all papers invited and contributed whether presented at the conference or accepted for publication only have been arranged in some logical order the reports of the four panel discussions were edited or summarized by the respective moderator in consultation with panel members in one instance shortened versions of the introductory papers precede the discussion where possible verbatim accounts of the often lively exchanges have been retained the customary catalogue of high energy accelerators has been published separately the continuing world wide activities in accelerator research with its ever larger projects are reflected by the numerous contributions accepted for inclusion in these proceedings which have reached the limit of what a single volume can manageably contain while making rapid publication even harder to achieve all the more reason to extend the gratitude of all concerned to those involved in the chain of production to the authors for their prompt handing in or timely posting of their papers thanks also to their secretaries who followed the guidelines for the presentation of camera ready copy during the early medieval islamic expansion in the seventh to eleventh centuries al hind india and its indianized hinterland was characterized by two organizational modes the long distance trade and mobile wealth of the peripheral frontier states and the settled agriculture of the heartland these two different types of social economic and political organization were successfully fused during the eleventh to thirteenth centuries and india became the hub of world trade during this period the middle east declined in importance central asia was unified under the mongols and islam expanded far into the indian subcontinent instead of being devastated by the mongols who were prevented from penetrating beyond the western periphery of al hind by the absence of sufficient good pasture land the agricultural plains of north india were brought under turko islamic rule in a gradual manner in a conquest effected by professional armies and not accompanied by any large scale nomadic invasions the result of the conquest was in short the revitalization of the economy of settled agriculture through the dynamic impetus of forced monetization and the expansion of political dominion islamic conquest and trade laid the foundation for a new type of indo islamic society in which the organizational forms of the frontier and of sedentary agriculture merged in a way that was uniquely successful in the late medieval world at large setting the indo islamic world apart from the middle east and china in the same centuries please note that the slave kings and the islamic conquest 11th 13th centuries
