the celebrations marking the 20th anniversary of the fall of the berlin wall provoked a debate on the outcomes of the transition process in the post communist countries including a debate on the functioning of civil society this provided a good opportunity for researchers to collect new data and revise the discourse on collective action and the dynamics of civil society in these countries jacobsson and saxonberg s collection of essays looks at social movements and their forms of mobilization and organization as well as action repertoires in relation to the social context and their success or failure the book meets an important need in the discourse on post communist social movements by going beyond the usual discourse about the weak and non participatory civil society in the post communist context this book gives a nuanced and updated view of social movements in post communist europe by looking at the cases of relatively successful mobilization by examining groups that have often been neglected in the discourse on social movements and civil society including animal rights groups racist movements and non feminist family organizations and by giving a deeper analysis of the different strategies that civil society organizations and groups can use rather than expecting social movements in post communist europe to follow the same patterns and operate in the same fashion as in western europe this volume shows that a wider view of contentious action is needed in order to understand the variety of strategies employed by collective actors operating in this context this volume moves discussion of ancient israelite culture beyond concepts of isolation and borders factoring in already well known insights from classical studies and ancient history that take greater account of the impressive connections between all the countries bordering the mediterranean sea specifically the contributors focus on cyprus and the bible and offer archaeological and biblical insights to consider how and in what ways cyprus and cypriot culture was related to biblical life and perceptions though the mediterranean separated palestine from cyprus it also joined them archaeological finds expose significant trade relations and cultural commonalities not only in the hellenistic and late roman eras but for many centuries prior these relations developed and became even more intimate in the later biblical period as evidenced by early jewish and christian writings by exploring various methods of cultural contact the contributors suggest that further examination of cultural links between cyprus and palestine in the biblical period can repay dividends in understanding the development of ancient israelite religion early judaism and early christianity beyond thalassocracies aims to evaluate and rethink the manner in which archaeologists approach understand and analyze the various processes associated with culture change connected to interregional contact using as a test case the world of the aegean during the late bronze age c 1600 1100 bc the 14 chapters compare and contrast various aspects of the phenomena of minoanisation and mycenaeanisation both of which share the basic underlying defining feature of material culture change in communities around the aegean this change was driven by trends manifesting themselves in the dominant palatial communities of each period of the bronze age over the past decade our understanding of how these processes developed and functioned has changed considerably whereas current discussions on minoanisation have already been informed by more recent theoretical trends especially in material culture studies and post colonial theory the process of mycenaeanisation is still very much conceptualized along traditional lines of explanation since these phenomena occurred in chronological sequence it makes sense that any reappraisal of their nature and significance should target those regions of the aegean basin that were affected by both processes highlighting their similarities and differences thus in the present volume we focus on the southern and eastern aegean in particular the cyclades dodecanese and the north eastern aegean islands
