nella nuova geografia dei poteri dell era digitale il saggio illustra al lettore il rapporto tra la protezione dei dati e la tecnologia ponendo al centro la persona e la tutela dei diritti fondamentali la rivoluzione digitale sta infatti cambiando il nostro modo di essere e il rapporto con la vita quotidiana ma sta modificando altresì i rapporti del cittadino con lo stato e con le istituzioni pubbliche e private il valore dei dati la loro monetizzazione l'interesse del singolo rispetto a quello della collettività l'uso degli algoritmi predittivi l'intelligenza artificiale sono temi che affrontiamo tutti come cittadini la protezione dei dati personali si concretizza su due aspetti prioritari per le piattaforme di servizi digitali come un requisito distintivo e competitivo caratterizzante la resilienza dei sistemi rispetto agli attacchi informatici mentre per i cittadini rappresenta un elemento di fiducia e un diritto da tutelare questa prospettiva è oggi percepita da parte dei cittadini perché più consapevoli del valore dei loro dati e resa più decisiva grazie all'impronta innovativa del regolamento europeo sulla protezione dati personali l'economia digitale si avvale sempre più di tecnologie invasive capaci di estrarre conoscenza dall'incrocio di grandi moli di informazioni che diventeranno così materia prima per la produzione di beni e servizi le implicazioni di ordine sociale sono evidenti laddove le grandi piattaforme operano in un contesto oligopolista che accresce il loro potere sfruttando i nostri dati con il rischio di produrre rilevanti discriminazioni sui diritti fondamentali e sulle libertà della persona la salvaguardia dell'autodeterminazione informativa dell'autonomia e della responsabilità delle scelte è in questo senso essenziale per mantenere il governo sulle nostre tracce digitali che più di ogni altro aspetto concorrono oggi a definire la nostra identità e con essa la nostra libertà this book explores vietnamese popular television in the post reform era that is from 1986 focussing on the relationship between television and national imagination it locates vietnamese television in the experiences of everyday life and the prevailing network of power relations resulting from marketization and globalization and as such moves beyond the clichéd assumption of vietnamese media as a mere propagandist instrument of the party state with examples from a wide range of television genres the book demonstrates how vietnamese television enables novel conditions of cultural oppression as well as political engagement in the name of the nation in sharp contrast to the previous image of vietnam as a war torn land post reform television conjures into being a new sense of national belonging based on an implicit rejection of the socialist past hopes for peace and prosperity and anxieties about a globalized future this book highlights the richness of vietnam s current culture and identity characterized the book argues by fraternity without uniformity islam is a growing presence practically everywhere in europe in italy however islam has met a unique model of state neutrality religious freedom and church and state collaboration this book gives a detailed description of the legal treatment of muslims in italy contrasting it with other european states and jurisprudence and with wider global tendencies that characterize the treatment of islam through focusing on a series of case studies the author argues that the relationship between church and state in italy and more broadly in europe should be reconsidered both to secure religious freedom and general welfare working on the concepts of religious freedom state neutrality and relationship between church and state andrea pin develops a theoretical framework that combines the state level with the supranational level in the form of the european convention of human rights which ultimately shapes a unitary but flexible understanding of pluralism this approach should better accommodate not just muslims needs but religious needs in general in italy and elsewhere required and how well each navy's systems actually worked it also takes in the weapons themselves how they were placed on ships and how this reflected the tactical concepts of naval defence as would be expected from any Friedman book it offers striking insights ð he argues for example that the royal navy so often criticised for lack of air mindedness was actually the most alert to the threat but that its systems were inadequate not because they were too primitive but because they tried to achieve too much the book summarises the experience of ww2 particularly in theatres where the aerial danger was greatest and a concluding chapter looks at post 1945 developments that drew on wartime lessons all important guns directors and electronics are represented in close up photos and drawings and lengthy appendices detail their technical data it is simply another superb contribution to naval technical history by its leading exponent this volume examines the property transformations in post communist central eastern europe cee and focuses on the role of restitution and privatisation in such transformations it argues that the theorisation of restitution in post communist cee is incomplete in the transitional justice scholarship and in the literature on correction of historical wrongs the book also argues that for a more complete theorisation of post communist restitution the transformations of property in post communist societies ought to be studied in a more holistic way the main legal vehicles used for such transformations privatisation and restitution should not be studied separately and in abstract but in their reciprocal relationship and in connection to the dimension of justice which each could achieve finally the book integrates privatisation in a theory of post communist transformation of property
