birds are astonishingly intelligent creatures in fact according to revolutionary new research some birds rival primates and even humans in their remarkable forms of intelligence like humans many birds have enormous brains relative to their size although small bird brains are packed with neurons that allow them to punch well above their weight in the genius of birds acclaimed author jennifer ackerman explores the newly discovered brilliance of birds and how it came about as she travels around the world to the most cutting edge frontiers of research the distant laboratories of barbados and new

the bowerbird habitats of australia the ravaged mid atlantic coast after hurricane sandy and the warming mountains of central virginia and the western states ackerman not only tells the story of the recently uncovered genius of birds but also delves deeply into the latest findings about the bird brain itself that are revolutionizing our view of what it means to be intelligent consider as ackerman does the clark s nutcracker a bird that can hide as many as 30 000 seeds over dozens of square miles and remember where it put them several months later the mockingbirds and thrashers species that can store 200 to 2 000 different songs in a brain a thousand times smaller than ours the well known pigeon which knows where it s going even thousands of miles from familiar territory and the new caledonian crow an impressive bird that makes its own tools but beyond highlighting how birds use their unique genius in technical ways ackerman points out the impressive social smarts of birds they deceive and manipulate they eavesdrop they display a strong sense of fairness they give gifts they play keep away and tug of war
