Allez, Viens! 2003 the idea that religion has a dangerous tendency to promote violence is part of the conventional wisdom of western societies and it underlies many of our institutions and policies from limits on the public role of religion to efforts to promote liberal democracy in the middle east william t cavanaugh challenges this conventional wisdom by examining how the twin categories of religion and the secular are constructed a growing body of scholarly work explores how the category religion has been constructed in the modern west and in colonial contexts according to specific configurations of political power cavanaugh draws on this scholarship to examine how timeless and transcultural categories of religion and the secular are used in arguments that religion causes violence he argues three points 1 there is no transhistorical and transcultural essence of religion what counts as religious or secular in any given context is a function of political configurations of power 2 such a transhistorical and transcultural concept of religion as non rational and prone to violence is one of the foundational legitimating myths of western society 3 this myth can be and is used to legitimate neo colonial violence against non western others particularly the muslim world

Allez Viens! 2006-01-01 first published in 1933 this book looks at the phonetics of african languages it argues that a good grounding in phonetics and tone work is an indispensable preliminary to anyone embarking on a study of african language and so provides the material necessary for this in a simple form the volume is primarily a practical manual for students of african languages but will also be an invaluable tool for students of general linguistics as a work of scientific interest the languages observed present features of language that are very different to those found in europe

Allez, Viens! 1996 a masterful biography amanda foreman a gripping story of queen elizabeth s last years authoritatively researched and engagingly recounted by the leading tudor historian of our age james shapiro author of 1599 and 1606 an ageing queen an heirless state conspiracy all round here is the court of elizabeth i as never known before history has pictured elizabeth i as gloriana an icon of strength and power but the reality especially during her later years was not so simple in 1583 elizabeth is fifty years old past childbearing but her greatest challenges are still to come the spanish armada the execution of mary queen of scots relentless plotting among her courtiers this gripping and vivid portrait of her life and times often told in her own words you know i am no morning woman reveals a woman who is fallible increasingly insecure and struggling to lead britain this is the real elizabeth for the first time one of the very best historians we have in the country it is brilliant vigorous history and a triumph of storytelling and scholarship jessie childs telegraph the best biography ever written of the virgin queen a revisionist sensitive compelling majestic masterwork that you can t put down simon sebag montefiore evening standard guy s careful work with documents known and unknown allows him to paint a novel portrait of a complex maybe even unknowable queen john gallagher guardian

Allez Viens! 1996 this book introduces pre service and in service foreign language teachers to the basic concepts of critical educational study as applied to the sociological position occupied by foreign language education in the united states although contemporary foreign language teachers typically know about second language acquisition and instructional methodology they are not prepared to understand issues of power in relation to for example language variety language status and education the author addresses issues such as the supposed failure of foreign language education the educational filter role played by language classes the concept of foreignness as seen in national standards language curricula and textbooks and the implications of these issues in terms of power relationships and cultural mediation both in and out of the classroom the reader is encouraged to analyze the forms of cultural struggle which can be found within the foreign language classrooms of the united states including the likely impact those struggles have on members of the dominant and subordinate cultures teachers are led through the development of skills in critical reflection and pedagogical application geared to social justice
