Decadent Conservatism

british decadent literature was a radical attack on conventional morality and middle class taste its insistence on the autonomy of the art and its exploration of sexuality dissipation and depravity at odds with the literary and social establishment yet this counter cultural narrative has obscured the often reactionary and elitist tendencies of decadent writers and artists of the fin de siècle decadent conservatism offers the first in depth examination of the intersection of decadence and conservatism arguing that underpinning both was the desire to find alternatives to liberal modernity both decadents and conservatism turned to the past to uncover values and models of social organisation that could offer stability in a chaotic world from well known figures such as oscar wilde and w b yeats through to the forgotten editors of short lived periodicals important female aesthetes such as michael field and politicians such as arthur balfour decadent conservatism challenges conventional understandings of the relationship between aesthetics politics and the past in late victorian britain through a series of thematic chapters exploring the alternative communities created by little magazines the politics of individualism investments in monarchy and religion folk decadence and jingoistic and nationalist responses to the second anglo boer war this study offers a new and much messier picture of fin de siècle literary politics it will be of interest to those working on victorian literature and modernism as well as social political and cultural history of the period 1880 1920 though underexplored in contemporary scholarship the victorian attempts to turn aesthetics into a science remain one of the most fascinating aspects of that era in the outward mind benjamin morgan approaches this period of innovation as an important origin point for current attempts to understand art or beauty using the tools of the sciences moving chronologically from natural theology in the early nineteenth century to laboratory psychology in the early twentieth morgan draws on little known archives of victorian intellectuals such as william morris walter pater john ruskin and others to argue that scientific studies of mind and emotion transformed the way writers and artists understood the experience of beauty and effectively redescribed aesthetic judgment as a biological adaptation looking beyond the victorian period to humanistic critical theory today he also shows how the historical relationship between science and aesthetics could be a vital resource for rethinking key concepts in contemporary literary and cultural criticism such as materialism empathy practice and form at a moment when the tumultuous relationship between the sciences and the humanities is the subject of ongoing debate morgan argues for the importance of understanding the arts and sciences as incontrovertibly intertwined
