~~licensing this book also reveals that the trips patenting in pharmaceuticals~~ encourages innovations by ensuring royalty collections and protects public health by raising standards of living however patenting offers exclusivity to pharmaceutical companies extending the duration of the patent term and establishing their control over production supply and distribution such control results in exclusivity over drug pricing the flexibilities of the compliance deadline compulsory licensing and parallel importation built into the trips are set to tackle untenable situations arising from patenting exclusivity however patent laws in most ldcs are out dated in terms of dealing with such flexibilities given this the research recommends that bangladesh should invoke the trips flexibilities the author of this book further establishes that the trips standard setting in agriculture and pharmaceuticals does not help the country to fulfil subsistence needs or promote economic development through innovation however the appropriation of agricultural and pharmaceutical goods during the use of the trips flexibilities has the potential to feed the people protect public health interests and increase economic development with the supply of food and drugs at home and abroad to this end the research asks bangladesh to reform its existing iprs provisions by redefining patentable inventions and simplifying compulsory licensing and other differential treatments to appropriate foreign technologies universitas airlangga has cultivated 100 journals with a wide range of disciplines we welcome academicians researchers students practitioners and other stakeholders to publish articles in the journals maintaining the existence of the journals is one of the efforts to publicly accommodate and disseminate research results to wider communities it is also our effort to harvest academic roots in the scholarly community and beyond the 100 journals have been progressively publishing works from local and international contributors the ability to demonstrate that a specific health care profession provides valuable and effective services that meet society s health needs is a major objective for all health care academicians and researchers such skills are critical to ensure service reimbursement from an increasingly small pool of health care dollars demonstrating clinical effectiveness depends on the reporting of written research results through journal publication so that the health care community and larger society will be able to access and read evidence supporting health care services today several clinical reporting standard guidelines have been created by researchers to enhance the ability of readers to evaluate the quality and value of studies mastering journal article writing and publication is the first text to compile those clinical research reporting standards in one source and helps educators and novice researchers to better understand the skills needed for journal publication health care researchers must begin using these reporting standards in order to write manuscripts that are both correctly formatted and transparently convey all critical study strengths and limitations educators must teach these reporting standards to students who must evaluate research reports as consumers and possible future contributors to the literature through their own writing provided by publisher this collection examines the role that case studies play in understanding and explaining british health policy overall the chapters cover the key health policy literatures in terms of the policy process analytical frameworks and some of the seminal moments of the nhs they have been written by leading health policy researchers in sociology social policy management and organisation studies the collection explores and promotes the case study as an under used method and thereby encourages a more reflective approach to policy learning by practitioners and academics the book will appeal to under graduates post graduates and academics in social policy public management and health services research over the past ten years the pisa assessment has risen to strategic prominence in the international education policy discourse sponsored organized and administered by the organization for economic cooperation and development oecd pisa seems well on its way to being institutionalized as the main engine in the global accountability regime the goal of this book is to problematize this development and pisa as an institution building force in global education it scrutinizes the role of pisa in ~~book shows that the trips introduction of iprs in the name of plant varieties~~ protection pvp and patents not only secures private sector investment in agriculture but also brings traditional agricultural practices within the spectrum of private monopoly increases the price of agricultural products and forces people into dependency on engineered seeds and other agricultural inputs to guard against such trade rules this book recommends that bangladesh should incorporate the trips flexibilities in the form of redefining patentable invention choosing between patents and pvp and providing for compulsory licensing this book also reveals that the trips patenting in pharmaceuticals encourages innovations by ensuring royalty collections and protects public health by raising standards of living however patenting offers exclusivity to pharmaceutical companies extending the duration of the patent term and establishing their control over production supply and distribution such control results in exclusivity over drug pricing the flexibilities of the compliance deadline compulsory licensing and parallel importation built into the trips are set to tackle untenable situations arising from patenting exclusivity however patent laws in most ldcs are out dated in terms of dealing with such flexibilities given this the research recommends that bangladesh should invoke the trips flexibilities the author of this book further establishes that the trips standard setting in agriculture and pharmaceuticals does not help the country to fulfil subsistence needs or promote economic development through innovation however the appropriation of agricultural and pharmaceutical goods during the use of the trips flexibilities has the potential to feed the people protect public health interests and increase economic development with the supply of food and drugs at home and abroad to this end the research asks bangladesh to reform its existing iprs provisions by redefining patentable inventions and simplifying compulsory licensing and other differential treatments to appropriate foreign technologies the ability to demonstrate that a specific health care profession provides valuable and effective services that meet society s health needs is a major objective for all health care academicians and researchers such skills are critical to ensure service reimbursement from an increasingly small pool of health care dollars demonstrating clinical effectiveness depends on the reporting of written research results through journal publication so that the health care community and larger society will be able to access and read evidence supporting health care services today several clinical reporting standard guidelines have been created by researchers to enhance the ability of readers to evaluate the quality and value of studies mastering journal article writing and publication is the first text to compile those clinical research reporting standards in one source and helps educators and novice researchers to better understand the skills needed for journal publication health care researchers must begin using these reporting standards in order to write manuscripts that are both correctly formatted and transparently convey all critical study strengths and limitations educators must teach these reporting standards to students who must evaluate research reports as consumers and possible interviewees over the past ten years the pisa assessment has risen to strategic prominence in the international education policy discourse sponsored organized and administered by the organization for economic cooperation and development oecd pisa seems well on its way to being institutionalized as the main engine in the global accountability regime the goal of this book is to problematize this development and pisa as an institution building force in global education it scrutinizes the role of pisa in the emerging regime of global educational governance and questions the presumption that the quality of a nation s school system can be evaluated through a standardized assessment that is insensitive to the world s vast cultural and institutional diversity the book raises the question of whether pisa s dominance in the global educational discourse runs the risk of engendering an unprecedented process of worldwide educational standardization for the sake of hitching schools more tightly to the bandwagon of economic efficiency while sacrificing their role to prepare students for independent thinking and civic participation you can hardly open a paper or read an academic journal without some attempt to explain an aspect of human behaviour or experience by reference to neuroscience biological or evolutionary processes this biologising has had rather a free ride until now being generally accepted by the public at large however there is a growing number of scholars who are challenging the assumption that we are little more than our bodies and animal origins this volume brings together a review of these emerging critiques expressed by an international range of senior academics from across the social sciences their arguments are firmly based in the empirical scientific tradition they show the lack of logic or evidence for many biologising claims as well as the damaging effects these biological assumptions can have on issues such as dealing with dyslexia or treating alcoholism this important book originally published as a special issue of contemporary social science contributes to a crucial debate on what it means to be human this collection of articles by david canter and his colleagues rigorously argued and richly informative are of immense importance it is astonishing that as canter puts it in his brilliant overview of biologising trends there are those in the humanities who need to be reminded that human beings can talk and interact with each other generating cultures and societies that have an existence that cannot be reduced to their mere mechanical parts professor raymond tallis frcp fmedsci dlitt littd in the preface in the face of increasing social demand and cutbacks in state budgetary support universities in african countries are now turning towards a multicampus system strategy as african governments have adopted neoliberal education policies that place premium on entrepreneurialism profit making privatization and markets as drivers of university development a reshaping of the academic work and organizational framework have taken place however little is known about the impact of this paradigm shift on access quality and governance in higher education this book fills the void in research and academic knowledge about the impact of the emerging university configurations in africa it analyzes the paradox surrounding the performance of multicampus university systems as avenues of broadening university access but whose structural success may be qualitatively contested this book offers a refreshing examination of the african multicampus university system from both an african and global perspective it makes use of empirical data from kenya collected during extensive fieldwork along with substantive library and documentary resources on the rest of the continents to fortify arguments and demonstrate important conclusions this allows for a comparative analysis of policies and strategies used in the establishment of campuses both within and beyond national boundaries in the continent and will be a welcome contribution to the existing repertoire on african universities
