with effective climate change mitigation policies still under development and with even the most aggressive proposals unable to halt climate change immediately many decision makers are focusing unprecedented attention on the need for strategies to adapt to climate changes that are now unavoidable the effects of climate change will touch every corner of the world s economies and societies adaptation is inevitable the remaining question is to what extent humans will anticipate and reduce undesired consequences of climate change or postpone response until after climate change impacts have altered ecological and socioeconomic systems so significantly that opportunities for adaptation become limited this book summarizes a national research council workshop at which presentations and discussion identified specific needs associated with this gap between the demand and supply of scientific information about climate change adaptation moving away from criminal behaviour can be fraught with difficulties often it can involve leaving behind old habits customs and even friends while at the same time adopting a new way of life how do individuals go about making a decision to give up crime how do they plan to sustain this decision and in what ways does probation help this book explores these questions based on in depth interviews with a group of men under probation supervision sam king investigates the factors associated with making a decision to desist from crime the book examines strategies for desistance and explores the factors that individuals consider when they are thinking about how they will desist in doing so the book sheds new light on existing understandings of desistance from crime and helps to develop our understandings of the role that individuals play in constructing their own desistance journeys this book also highlights the role of probation in this process offering a timely and critical review of the nature of probation under the new labour government in the uk between 1997 2010 the findings indicate that we should allow probation officers greater autonomy and discretion within their roles and that we should free them from the bureaucracy of risk assessment and targets moreover the book warns against the potential fragmentation of community supervision as such the book will be of interest to criminology students researchers academics policymakers and practitioners particularly those who work with ex offenders in the community using science to improve the blm wild horse and burro program a way forward reviews the science that underpins the bureau of land management s oversight of free ranging horses and burros on federal public lands in the western united states concluding that constructive changes could be implemented the wild horse and burro program has not used scientifically rigorous methods to estimate the population sizes of horses and burros to model the effects of management actions on the animals or to assess the availability and use of forage on rangelands evidence suggests that horse populations are growing by 15 to 20 percent each year a level that is unsustainable for maintaining healthy horse populations as well as healthy ecosystems promising fertility control methods are available to help limit this population growth however in addition science based methods exist for improving population estimates predicting the effects of management practices in order to maintain genetically diverse healthy populations and estimating the productivity of rangelands greater transparency in how science based methods are used to inform management decisions may help increase public confidence in the wild horse and burro program
