this intriguing study examines western perceptions of war in and beyond the nineteenth century surveying the writings of novelists anthropologists psychiatrists psychoanalysts philosophers poets natural scientists and journalists to trace the terms of modern thought on the nature of military conflict daniel pick brings together philosophical and historical models of war with fictions of invasion propaganda from the great war interpretations of shellshock and speculations about the biological value of conquest he discusses the work of such familiar commentators as clausewitz engels and treitschke and examines little known writings by proudhon de quincey ruskin valery and many others culminating in the extraordinary dialogue between freud and einstein why war he analyses victorian fears of french contamination through the channel tunnel as well as the widespread continuing dread of german domination and he charts the history of the pervasive european belief that war is beneficial or at least functionally necessary a central theme of the book is the disturbing relationship between machinery and destruction visions of relentless technological progress and the inexorable advance of the military industrial complex often seem to distort our understanding of war even to reduce it to a sophisticated game played out by high precision automata pick explores both the reassuring and troubling aspects of such representations shorn of human agency or responsibility war apparently threatens to become technologically unstoppable the remorseless perfect abattoir of the industrial age war machine explores the enduring historical fascination with and recoil from brutal mechanical slaughter and the modern acquiescence in and enthusiasm for in rilke s phrase these days of monstrously accelerated dying in this eighth volume of the metropolitan museum of art s series papers william mills ivins jr asserts that the rationalization of sight the development of symbols and grammar for visual representation was the most significant advancement made during the renaissance this slim but informative volume especially highlights the use of euclidean geometry in the works of renaissance artists leon battista alberti and albrecht dürer as evidence of the increased interest in developing a rational and systemic method for translating sensory input onto the flat surface of the picture plane the theory of communicative action represents a major contribution to contemporary social theory not only does it provide a compelling critique of some of the main perspectives in 20th century philosophy and social science but it also presents a systematic synthesis of the many themes which have preoccupied habermas for thirty years times literary supplement publisher offers a new analysis of the ideas of the 3 authors who have contributed most to the establishment of the basic framework of contemporary sociology this book puts forward that rationalisation of social life is the key to organisational effectiveness and economic development the book will be useful for students in social science first published in 1930 john hobson s study deals with the economic dilemmas generated in the early twentieth century by the advent of mass production namely the over production and surfeit of goods and the resultant failure of the expansion of markets leading to record levels of mass unemployment seeking a solution to this dilemma hobson analyses all aspects of the problem income uses of the surplus underconsumption markets and distribution and internationalism the study also explores theories concerning economies of rationalisation both in terms of productivity and consumption chronicles the emergence of modern sainthood analyzing how the catholic church legitimized miracles during the counter reformation in southern europe max weber as a sociologist of music scrutinising an array of nineteenth century discourses on the concept of development in music ana petrov focuses on max weber s theory of rationalisation in music which led him to see rationalised music as the most developed the most complex and the best music that the whole of civilisation had ever achieved weber was convinced that his analysis could prove that the peak of the rationalisation process was to be found in the great masterpieces of german composers starting with johann sebastian bach and finishing with richard wagner petrov argues that weber s allegedly neutral concepts were far from innocent and ideology free but rather outcomes of his social and intellectual background she explores the implications of weber s concept of rationalisation in music discussing correlations between the theories of evolution and rationalisation and the paradigm of cultural imperialism which can be recognised in weber s promulgation of the superiority of western music traditions review of the department of education s policy on the rationalisation of schools concerning primary and secondary education in northern ireland this title is part of uc press s voices revived program which commemorates university of california press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 voices revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology this title was originally published in 1933 this book explores thematic parallels between max weber s theory of the rationalization and disenchantment of the modern work and the critiques of contemporary culture developed by lyotard foucault and baudrillard it is suggested that these three theorists associated with poststructuralism and postmodernism respond to weber s account of the rise nature and trajectory of modern culture by pursuing highly imaginative and coherent strategies of affirmation and re enchantment examining the work of these three key thinkers in this way casts new light on weber s sociology of rationalization and his theory of the crisis of modernity it also specifies the nature of transgressive critiques of modern culture and their strengths and weaknesses here for the first time in english is volume one of jurgen habermas s long awaited magnum opus the theory of communicative action this pathbreaking work is guided by three interrelated concerns 1 to develop a concept of communicative rationality that is no longer tied to the subjective and individualistic premises of modern social and political theory 2 to construct a two level concept of society that integrates the lifeworld and system paradigms and 3 to sketch out a critical theory of modernity that explains its sociopathologies in a new way habermas approaches these tasks through a combination of conceptual analyses systematic reflections and critical reconstructions of such predecessors as marx and weber durkheim and mead horkheimer and adorno schutz and parsons reason and the rationalization of society develops a sociological theory of action that stresses not its means ends or teleological aspect but the need to coordinate action socially via communication in the introductory chapter habermas sets out a powerful series of arguments on such foundational issues as cultural and historical relativism the methodology of verstehen the inseparability of interpretation from critique in addition to clarifying the normative foundations of critical social inquiry this sets the stage for a systematic appropriation of weber s theory of rationalization and its marxist reception by lukacs horkheimer and adorno this is an important book for degree students of philosophy sociology and related subjects first published in 1930 john hobson s study deals with the economic dilemmas generated in the
