Book Collecting 2000 1891

collecting is an obsession that goes back to the mists of history while spare time and spare cash seem an absolute necessity for this kind of activity every collector has his or her own approach to the formation of a collection the way in which one's treasures are displayed is another important instance in which one collector differs from another glass cases niches trays cupboards or drawers have been adopted sometimes cards offer information on the subject its age and provenance an overall theme may have prompted the choice of the actual objects displayed together security reasons suggest one room over another while some collectors keep their treasures as close as possible in their bedroom throughout their living quarters or in a locked up closet nearby others may find that they want to be able to show off their collection without being disturbed by visitors in the rooms in which they actually spend most of their time certainly our notions of private and public have changed considerably over the centuries and this has had an impact on questions of display and on the separation of particular parts of the house from other less accessible ones in particular in great houses that allow for the establishment of a museum the museum in such cases is quite separate from the living quarters for example situated on the ground floor off the main hall not all displays were so defined there were many forms of exhibition just as there were many forms of collections the aims and ambitions of the collector are often discussed in terms of the display of their collections in part because we believe that analysing how a collection was shown and how it was received are key contributors to our understanding the role and purpose of the collection in lieu of any other documentation inventories sales catalogues and wills remain essential tools for the historian of collecting both in terms of what was owned and where it was housed this volume the second in a series of four presents ten articles that explore the connection between collections and their display in near or separate from the princely apartment within a time frame that runs from the sixteenth century to the early nineteenth and within a geographical area that includes courts on the italian peninsula in england france the netherlands and germany
