Chatterbox 2020-05-25 rebecca valette's Clitso Dedman Navajo Carver is the first biography of artist Clitso Dedman 1876-1953 one of the most important but overlooked Diné Navajo artists of his generation Dedman was born to a traditional Navajo family in Chinle Arizona and herded sheep as a child he was educated in the late 1880s and early 1890s at the Fort Defiance Indian School then at the Teller Institute in Grand Junction Colorado after graduation Dedman moved to Gallup New Mexico where he worked in the machine shop of the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe Railway before opening his first of three Navajo trading posts in Rough Rock Arizona after tragedy struck his life in 1915 he moved back to Chinle and abruptly changed careers to become a blacksmith and builder at age sixty suffering from arthritis Dedman turned his creative talent to wood carving thus initiating a new Navajo art form although the neighboring Hopis had been carving Kachina dolls for generations the Navajos traditionally avoided any permanent reproduction of their holy people and even of human figures Dedman was the first to ignore this prescription and for the rest of his life he focused on creating wooden sculptures of the various participants in the Yeibichai dance which closed the Navajo Nightway ceremony these secular carvings were immediately purchased and sold to tourists by regional Indian traders today Dedman's distinctive and highly regarded work can be found in private collections galleries and museums such as the Navajo Nation Museum at Window Rock the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco and the Arizona State Museum in Tucson Clitso Dedman Navajo Carver with its extensive illustrations is the story of a remarkable and underrecognized figure of twentieth century Navajo artistic creation and innovation

Queers In Kilts 1885 in plaid nights men in kilts are as varied as they are hot whether they're caber tossers rugby players highland warriors country dancers or time traveling vampires they're up for surprises and sexy good times Rob Rosen starts us off with humor in tossing it contemporary men discover love in unexpected places in whiskey and want by megan mcferren perfect working order by elizabeth coldwell and off kilter by racheline maltese erin mcrae we get a taste of the paranormal in sir ww by angelique voisen feumaidh mi ruith i have to run by missouri dalton and kilt in the closet by logan zachary and we re treated to forbidden love in historicals hunting for a highlander by lila mathews a time to heal by anna mansel and as fair art thou my bonny lad by mckay in these stories some tartan clad men wear their kilts in the traditional manner while others are less daring but all find love and of course a happy ending especially at night when the plaid comes off

Babyhood 1882 a candid assessment of why the job market is not as healthy as we think blanchflower shows how many workers are underemployed or have simply given up trying to find a well paying job how wage growth has not returned to prerecession levels despite rosy employment indicators and how the young and the less skilled are among the worst casualties of underemployment

1713 2018-05-15 in many ways jill mariner has it made born into a family with money and blessed with good looks and smarts she s looking forward to a lifetime of love and leisure as the book opens but she soon finds out that life has a funny way of upending one s expectations when everything changes in an instant jill finds herself penniless and looking for love will she learn how to make her way in the world read the little warrior to find out

Hildegard's Holiday 2023 from the author of cult classic the minotaur takes a cigarette break comes a mesmerizing tale that lurks in the evocative literary landscape between suspense and horror janice witherspoon s stagnant life is upended by a senseless death thousands of miles away fueled by shock steered by fate and fear she gathers her belongings from her north carolina apartment and takes to the road but something an inner voice or the beguiling utterances of an older darker soul drives janice farther off course when she finally comes to a stop janice finds herself deep in rural pennsylvania on the grounds of an abandoned lockhouse janice is seduced by the calm of the old house the dry canal and the mountains rising up all around it days turn to weeks and months before janice lets down her guard opening her doors to the inhabitants of her new province there s stephen gainy a reclusive art teacher and stone carver as well as a spectral woman unlike any janice has ever met as janice grows more enmeshed in the lives of those around her her calm gives way to a flood of terrifying accidents and nightmares soon janice is pulled into a web of her own history bound by blood ties to events of the past that threaten to consume her whole and frantically piecing a story together as the edges between the real and unreal blur and break down

Clitso Dedman, Navajo Carver 2015-07-15 in his previous darkness books into the darkness darkness descending and through the darkness bestselling author harry turtledove has been telling an epic tale of a world at war a dark mirror of the terrible wars of our own twentieth century set in a world where battles are fought with magic rather than technology imagine the drama and terror of the second world war in such a place the death the destruction the sheer scale of the horror is the same but the bullets are beams of eldritch fire the tanks are great horned and taloned beasts and fighters and bombers are dragons raining fire upon their targets this is the world of the derlavaian continent a world that is slowly but surely being conquered mile after bloody mile by the forces of the algarvian empire forces whose most terrible battle magics are powered by the slaughter of innocent people in this the forth volume of the series following on from through the darkness the war for the future of derlavai builds towards its crescendo as the mages of kuusamo aided by their former rivals from lagoas work desperately to create a newer form of magic magic of unprecedented destructive power magic that will change the course of the future
