extensive empirical analysis of ez processes and outcomes in all six cities shows that revitalization outcomes are best explained by the quality of local governance good local governance makes positive contributions to revitalization efforts while poor local governance retards progress while policy design and contextual factors are important how cities craft and carry out their strategies are critical determinants of successful revitalization rich and stoker find that good governance is often founded on public private cooperation a stance that argues against both the strongest critics of neoliberalism who see private enterprise as dangerous in principle and the strongest opponents of liberalism who would like to reduce the role of government
