the great german novelist thomas mann implored readers to resist the persistent and growing militarism of the mid twentieth century to whom should we turn for guidance during this current era of global violence political corruption economic inequality and environmental degradation for more than two millennia the world's great thinkers have held that the ethically good life is the highest purpose of human existence renowned political philosopher fred dallmayr traces the development of this notion finding surprising connections among aristotelian ethics abrahamic and eastern religious traditions german idealism and postindustrial social criticism in search of the good life does not offer a blueprint but rather invites readers on a cross cultural quest along the way the author discusses the teachings of aristotle confucius nicolaus of cusa leibniz and schiller in addition invoking more recent writings of gadamer and ricoeur as guideposts and sources of hope during our troubled times among contemporary themes dallmayr discusses are the role of the classics in education proper and improper ways of spreading democracy globally the possibility of transnational citizenship the problem of politicized evil and the role of religion in our predominantly secular culture dallmayr restores the notion of the good life as a hallmark of personal conduct civic virtue and political engagement and as the road map to enduring peace in search of the good life seeks to arouse complacent and dispirited citizens guiding them out of the distractions of shallow amusements and perilous resentments in the direction of mutual learning and civic pedagogyÑa direction that will enable them to impose accountability on political leaders who stray from fundamental ethical standards this is the second volume of thomas cripps s definitive history of african americans in hollywood it covers the period from world war ii through the civil rights movement of the 1960s examining this period through the prism of popular culture making movies black shows how movies anticipated and helped form america s changing ideas about race cripps contends that from the liberal rhetoric of the war years marked as it was by the propaganda catchwords brotherhood and tolerance came movies that defined a new african american presence both in film and in american society at large he argues that the war years more than any previous era gave african american activists access to centers of cultural influence and power in both washington and hollywood among the results were an expanded black imagery on the screen during the war in combat movies such as bataan crash dive and sahara musicals such as stormy weather and cabin in the sky and government propaganda films such as the negro soldier and wings for this man narrated by ronald reagan after the war the ideologies of both black activism and integrationism persisted resulting in the message movie era of pinky home of the brave and no way out a form of racial politics that anticipated the goals of the civil rights movement delving into previously inaccessible records of major hollywood studios among them warner bros rko and 20th century fox as well as records of the office of war information in the national archives and records of the naacp and interviews with survivors of the era cripps reveals the struggle of both lesser known black filmmakers like carlton moss and major figures such as sidney poitier more than a narrative history making movies black reaches beyond the screen itself with sixty photographs many never before published which illustrate the mood of the time revealing the social impact of the classical hollywood film making movies black is the perfect book for those interested in the changing racial climate in post world war ii american life in the 1930s the roosevelt administration unwilling to antagonize a powerful southern congressional bloc refused to endorse legislation that openly sought to improve political economic and social conditions for african americans instead as historian lauren rebecca sklaroff shows the administration recognized and celebrated african americans by offering federal support to notable black intellectuals celebrities and artists sklaroff illustrates how programs within the federal arts projects and several war agencies gave voice to such notable african americans as lena horne joe louis duke ellington and richard wright as well as lesser known figures she argues that these new deal programs represent a key moment in the history of american race relations as the cultural arena provided black men and women with unique employment opportunities and new outlets for political expression equally important she contends that these cultural programs were not merely an attempt to appease a black constituency but were also part of the new deal s larger goal of promoting a multiracial nation yet while federal projects ushered in creativity and unprecedented possibilities they were also subject to censorship bigotry and political machinations with numerous illustrations black culture and the new deal offers a fresh perspective on the new deal s racial progressivism and provides a new framework for understanding black culture and politics in the roosevelt era
