2000-06-29

man is a social animal but in this age of rampant attention getting and ego surfing or scanning the internet for occurrences of one's own name perhaps aggressively or competitively social would be a better description this useful and popular volume now in a second edition that features major new introductory and concluding essays entertainingly ponders this proposition charles derber argues that there is a general lack of social support in today's america one which causes people to vie hungrily for attention little wonder then that we should so often employ various techniques to turn the course of a given conversation back to ourselves illustrating conversational narcissism with sample dialogues that will seem disturbingly familiar to all readers this book analyses the pursuit of attention in conversation as well as in politics and celebrity culture and demonstrates the ultimate importance of gender class and racial differences in competing for attention this book gives us the broad sweep of a remarkable psychoanalytic writer harry guntrip whose place is at the forefront of our efforts to explain the role of an emergent and resilient self in the organization and maintenance of human relations i believe that a substantial part of guntrip s discovery his work on a painful and bleak frontier that was simultaneously within himself and in the realm of the science of psychoanalysis has been absorbed into the sensibility of the field with far less attribution and direct appreciation than is warranted harry guntrip brought a unique intensity to the examination of personal experience in constructing and validating psychoanalytic meaning his heritage draws directly on the tradition of freud whose personal struggles formed the raw data for the interpretation of dreams there are few works of such stature in the annals of our work few examples of the blending of life and art life and science guntrip s work is one of them in this volume jeremy hazell has done far more than simply collect the records he has done that and he has allowed it to stand for itself but he has done so through his own lens through a depth of understanding and valuing that shines through his introduction is a record of the interweaving of guntrip s personal growth with his psychoanalytic understanding it is a baedeker of guntrip s travels a rich appreciation a tribute and a fine work in its own right guntrip s work is important to us perhaps now more than ever the issues with which he grappled have come to haunt us in a time of ever more consciousness of the toll of social and personal deprivation and of a growing awareness that our work is not concerned with egos with the mechanisms of an autonomous mind as much as it is with selves in relation to others taking from his teachers and colleagues from fairbairn winnicott and sutherland guntrip worked tirelessly to teach that it is in the depth of personal relations that we find ourselves and that dedication to this process offers us what we have to give to our patients jeremy hazell has drawn together the record of this personal journey he has understood it absorbed its meaning and given it to us that we may use it and expand its reach i am grateful to him for his dedication and for the appearance of this collection at long last a work that will illuminate paths of new exploration in psychoanalysis for many years to come in what ways does listening to music shape everyday perception is music particularly effective in promoting shifts in consciousness is there any difference perceptually between contemplating one's surroundings and experiencing a work of art everyday music listening is the first book to focus in depth on the detailed nature of music listening episodes as lived mental experiences ruth herbert uses new empirical data to explore the psychological processes involved in everyday music listening scenarios charting interactions between music perceiver and environment in a diverse range of real world contexts findings are integrated with insights from a broad range of literature including consciousness studies and research into altered states of consciousness as well as ideas from ethology and evolutionary psychology suggesting that a psychobiological capacity for trancing is linked to the origins of making and receiving of art the term trance is not generally associated with music listening outside ethnomusicological studies of strong experiences yet hypnotic like involvements in daily life have long been recognized by hypnotherapy researchers the author argues that multiply distributed attention prevalent in much contemporary listening does not necessarily indicate superficial engagement music emerges as a particularly effective mediator of experience absorption and dissociation as manifestations of trancing are self regulatory processes often operating at the level of unconscious awareness that support individuals perceptions of psychological health this fascinating study brings together research and theory from a wide range of fields to provide a new framework for understanding the phenomenology of music listening in a way that will appeal to both specialist academic audiences and a broad general readership

Odd Hours: Daily Prayer

this book brings together diverse aspects of animate nature diverse not only in terms of animate nature itself but in terms of areas of study indeed the book lives up to the word interdisciplinary in its title it brings together diverse academic perspectives within each chapter and across chapters showing in each instance that scientific understandings of animate nature are or can be complementary to philosophical understandings thus insides and outsides typically viewed as subjective vs objective mind vs body and self vs other are shown to be woven together in complex and subtle ways in the complexities and subtleties of animate life itself there are and ever have been only two essential models of government minority rule of all types labelled oligocracy and regimes in which power is concentrated in the hands of a single individual labelled monarchy vaunted democracies are in reality either oligocracies or monarchies the present day democracies of britain and the united states are in reality composite oligocracies made up of several disparate elements oligocracies are by definition regimes with a high degree of inequality but with variable levels of liberty oligocracy and inequality are the default features of human society equality is unattainable except by a radical monarchy like fidel castro s cuba and then only with difficulty and at the expense of liberty and probably of lives as well equality of opportunity must not be equated with equality equality of opportunity means an equal opportunity to become unequal paradoxically however for genuine equality of opportunity to exist there has to be equality which is practically unattainable for genuine freedom of expression to exist there also needs to be equality because the little man standing on his soap box and shouting his lungs out at speaker s corner in london s hyde park cannot compete with the media moguls which is why genuine freedom of expression is rare once these truths are recognised it becomes clear that for one state to attempt regime change in a foreign country is likely to be futile

we are all more primitive and irrational than we care to acknowledge says dr leonard shengold in this profound and eloquent book we all suffer to some degree from delusions vestiges of infantile mental functioning that continue into adult life and that at times of crisis manifest themselves in narcissistic thoughts of omnipotence immortality or perfection dr shengold argues that we can never eliminate these delusions of everyday life but we can lessen their effect if we acknowledge or own them he asserts that insight into what we are and what has happened to us is a prerequisite for caring about others and for accepting the transient conditions of life both necessary to attain happiness dr shengold discusses delusions we all experience as well as delusions associated with paranoia perversions being in love and identification with delusional parents he illustrates his ideas by referring to the lives and works of such literary figures as shakespeare swift tolstoy pascal rilke randall jarrell dickens hardy and especially samuel butler dr shengold also brings in relevant clinical material because as he points out delusions of everyday life are at the heart of misunderstanding and conflict in life and of resistance to change in psychological treatment these delusions must be attenuated if therapy is to be successful what is it like to be an isolated old widow living alone on the bare old age pension in the 1960s the question had become a standard refrain originally published in 1966 this was the first full length study by a sociologist of isolation in old age although the majority of old people were in no sense a problem group at the time a substantial minority of the elderly were alone in one or more ways about 1.3 million people aged sixty five and over in britain lived alone a large number admitted to feeling lonely at least sometime about a million were actually socially isolated in terms of low level and frequency of social contact mr tunstall also uses a fourth category of aloneness namely anomie as developed by durkheim merton and srole this report uses careful and statistical analysis of the four types of aloneness and of specially affected groups such as the single the recently widowed and the housebound but it also includes details of interviews with ten highly individual old people from suburban harrow booming northampton industrial revolution oldham and rural south norfolk the book contains a discussion of the problem of personality in isolation and a commentary on the inadequacies of social theory about old age finally the concluding chapter suggests a wide variety of policy measures which might help to alleviate social isolation in old age

Insides and Outsides

this volume develops a comprehensive framework for applying the theory of hauntology to everyday life from ethnographic and clinical points of view the central argument of the book is that all human experience is fundamentally haunted and that a shift from ontological theory of subjective experience to a hauntological one is necessary and has urgent implications building on the notion of hauntology outlined by derrida the discussions are developed within the frameworks of psychoanalytic theory specifically jacques lacan s object relational theory of ego development and his structural reading of freud s theory of the psychic apparatus and its dynamics along with the hegelian ontology of the negative and its later modifications by 20th century philosophers such as heidegger and derrida and the semiotics of difference introduced by saussure and worked by jakobson and others this book argues and demonstrates the immediate relevance of hauntological analysis in everyday life by providing a microanalysis of the roles played by power meaning and desire and by using vignettes and data from ethnographic research and clinical settings as well as references to literature movies and other cultural products originally published in 1983 this clear sighted study built an understanding of what human behaviour meant at the time an understanding which can still be of practical use for those who work with people in their everyday lives today the various influences on the individual are carefully examined with theoretical approaches from different standpoints considered in relation to one another from the development of the personality and behaviour patterns to the effect of family and social life culminating in the picture of a whole responsive person relationships are seen to be important and this is reflected in the selection of material ford argues that it is the social worker s role to offer guidance relating to the nature and quality of an individual s interaction with society and that this can be done more effectively if there is a practical understanding of how this interaction evolves examples of social work practice are given throughout to show how such understandings may be used
