public concern about the safety and healthfulness of the food supply grew markedly during the 1980s numerous government academic interest group and media reports questioning the adequacy of the food safety regulatory system formed the basis for this increase in concern while public concern focused most directly on pesticide residues in food scientists emphasized the risks of illness associated with microbiological contamination of food much additional attention was focused on the food supply as a result of the striking consensus on dietary recommendations that emerged in the late 1980s based on increased scientific knowledge of linkages between diet and health relatively little research on the economic aspects of food safety and nutrition issues had been conducted up to the mid 1980s these aspects are complex on the consumer demand side they include consumers perceptions of the risks associated with particular food products how demographic characteristics influence consumers processing of risk information and subsequent changes in food demand behavior and the monetary value consumers might place on changes in the risk profiles of products the economic benefits and costs associated with current food consumption patterns are a major determinant of demand for improved food safety and dietary change through government regulation while a more complete picture of risks benefits and costs has been emerging recently much is yet unknown maintaining the importance of socio economic issues in devising transitional justice mechanisms this book examines the widespread practice of land grabbing in afghanistan on 3 september 2003 100 armed police officers bulldozed around 30 homes in the sherpur neighborhood of kabul afghanistan evicting over 250 people historically the land was part of the property of the ministry of defense of which a zone was allocated to the ministry s employees who had built homes and had lived there for nearly 30 years after the demolition however the land was distributed among 300 high ranking government officials including ministers deputy ministers governors and other powerful warlords land grabbing in afghanistan has become a widespread practice across the country based on over 50 semi structured interviews with key informants and group discussions with war victims and local experts in kabul the current book examines the relevance of transitional justice discourse and practice in response to this situation following a critical criminological concern with social harm the book maintains that it is not enough to consider a country s political history of violent conflict and the violation of civil and political rights alone rather to decide on appropriate transitional justice mechanisms it is crucial to consider a country s socio economic background and above all the socio economic harm inflicted on people during periods of violent conflict this original and detailed account of the socio economic challenges faced by transitional justice mechanisms will be of interest to those studying and working in this area in law politics development studies and criminology this volume deals with land degradation which is occurring in almost all terrestrial biomes and agro ecologies in both low and high income countries and is stretching to about 30 of the total global land area about three billion people reside in these degraded lands however the impact of land degradation is especially severe on livelihoods of the poor who heavily depend on natural resources the annual global cost of land degradation due to land use and cover change lucc and lower cropland and rangeland productivity is estimated to be about 300 billion usd sub saharan africa ssa accounts for the largest share 22 of the total global cost of land degradation only about 38 of the cost of land degradation due to lucc which accounts for 78 of the us 300 billion loss is borne by land users and the remaining share 62 is borne by consumers of ecosystem services off the farm the results in this volume indicate that reversing land degradation trends makes both economic sense and has multiple social and environmental benefits on average one us dollar investment into restoration of degraded land returns five us dollars the findings of the country case studies call for increased investments into the rehabilitation and restoration of degraded lands including through such institutional and policy measures as strengthening community participation for sustainable land management enhancing government effectiveness and rule of law improving access to markets and rural services and securing land tenure the assessment in this volume has been conducted at a time when there is an elevated interest in private land investments and when global efforts to achieve sustainable development objectives have intensified in this regard the results of this volume can contribute significantly to the ongoing policy debate and efforts to design strategies for achieving sustainable development goals and related efforts to address land degradation and halt biodiversity loss
