The negative prefixes in-, un-, and dis- in the English language. An investigation with regard to semantics and form 2021-07-29

seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject english language and literature studies linguistics grade 1 3 university of wuppertal language english abstract this analysis serves to find out whether these prefixes express different nuances of negativity do they have a meaning on their own or can they be considered synonymous as they all denote negativity the negative prefixes in un and dis are all used to alter an affirmative statement into a negative one in order to signal oppositeness they are considered rival prefixes however bauer et al point out that the attachment of different negative prefixes to the same base creates derivatives which are often not only formally but also semantically different
