volume 5 comprises the five books adorno in 60 minutes habermas in 60 minutes foucault in 60 minutes rawls in 60 minutes and popper in 60 minutes each short study sums up the key idea at the heart of each respective thinker and asks the question of what use is this key idea to us today but above all the philosophers get to speak for themselves their most important statements are prominently presented as direct quotations in speech balloons with appropriate graphics with exact indication of the source of each quote in the author's works this light hearted but nonetheless scholarly precise rendering of the ideas of each thinker makes it easy for the reader to acquaint him or herself with the great questions of our lives because every philosopher who has achieved global fame has posed the question of meaning what is it that holds at the most essential level the world together for adorno it is the dialectical development of civilization from the stone age up to capitalism along with the alienation of man from nature that goes with it habermas by contrast sees in this historical process of development the chance to gradually improve society through the emancipatory power of language in communicative action foucault remains sceptical here and reveals to us the rigid structures in which we as modern individuals are trapped rawls develops a complex and compelling procedure for the creation of an ideally just state of affairs popper finally establishes a quite new theory of science whereby every scientific truth has only a provisional character so that it must eventually be relieved and replaced by better truths in other words the meaning of the world and thus of our own lives remains among philosophers a topic of great controversy one thing though is sure each of these five thinkers struck from his own perspective one brilliant spark out of that complex crystal that is the truth

Black Belt 1991-11 albert camus was a legend in his own lifetime as a successful author a philosopher and a ladies man his philosophical discoveries remain provocative even today because like all great philosophers camus posed the question of the meaning of life but his answer to this question was an answer of an entirely new kind this question as to the meaning of life has been answered of course very differently down the centuries for plato it is the good that holds the world together for hegel the world spirit for marx the relations of production for sartre freedom for nietzsche will to power and for habermas the development of communicative reason really each philosopher has his own answer to this question but camus is the exception here he has none or rather worse he has an answer but one of very sobering effect his answer to the question what is the meaning of life is simply it has no meaning life is absurd we plan ahead and make decisions but in the last analysis our whole life depends on a series of chance events over which we have no control nor is there really a goal nevertheless it is our task to live proudly and undauntedly on camus compares the life of man with the myth of sisyphus the mythical sisyphus strained tirelessly to push a boulder up a mountainside even though it always rolled back down before he reached the top but precisely in this apparently senseless and absurd activity lay argued camus a chance for a fulfilled life camus explains to us how we can live with absurdity we must he says imagine sisyphus happy the book camus in 60 minutes explains using selected quotations and examples this theory of the absurd as it is developed by camus in his main philosophical works the myth of sisyphus and the rebel the chapter on what use camus discovery is for us today describes the absurd style of life that camus recommends camus colourful examples of absurd life projects and his descriptions of how one best confronts the absurd itself and leads a life without god or ideological orientation are above all in our modern societies of powerful relevance and topicality the book forms part of the popular series great thinkers in 60 minutes

Camus in 60 Minutes 2016-07-08 for more than thirty years nicholas lee was a cameraman on 60 minutes australia s most respected and watched current affairs program alongside ray martin george negus ian leslie richard carleton mike munro jennifer byrne liz hayes and tara brown among others all this in 60 minutes is the revealing and often hilarious memoir of his time with the show of the crazy days of unlimited expense accounts of late nights and bleary mornings the fun and fear on the road and in the refugee camps and war zones it goes inside the ira idi amin s torture cells and into palaces and mud huts it recounts unforgettable trips on b 52s ultra lights and the orient express and it takes you behind the interviews with the famous and infamous from presidents rock stars despots and kings to pygmies and manic charismatic gurus the result is a book that is compelling funny and utterly eye opening as ellen fanning describes it all this in 60 minutes perfectly captures the controlled chaos the seat of the pants improvisation the behind the scenes exhilaration of 60 minutes all of which goes to prove that often the best bits never make it to the screen

ontology because he wanted to show the very deepest foundations of man's understanding of himself and the world his interest as a philosopher extended beyond the individual sciences to the underlying question of the meaning of life as a whole his key question then was what is the meaning of being but if we are to ask about the meaning of being and thus about the meaning of life we must so heidegger argues first look into the question of just what kind of being it is that poses such questions this question posing being he says is man himself man is the only living being who can and must ask such questions man is constantly looking for orientation this is why heidegger also describes human life as a great challenge life does not live itself but rather requires constant decisions in order to be lived but this also means that we can potentially fail to realize the meaning of our own life heidegger provocatively suggests that most people fail to live out their existence as he puts it authentically he confronts us with the fact that generally speaking we live our lives doing the things you're supposed to do you're supposed to go to school then to university to get a well paid job to take an annual holiday and so this is what we do how we live our lives instead of living authentic lives of our own we stay within the tracks made safe and worn by others but how do i know what life would be authentically mine how do i make out the life that i am destined for the book heidegger in 60 minutes uses key passages quoted from heidegger's own works to explain the philosopher's famous existential analysis in a clearly comprehensible way it takes the reader on an adventurous journey to the deepest structures of his or her own existence there will surely be few readers of the chapters on the care character of human existence or anxiety in the face of nothingness who will not recognize something of their own life experience in the existential structures laid bare by heidegger in the chapter on what use heidegger's discovery is to us today it is then shown how broadly and topically relevant heidegger's thoughts still are for our personal lives and for the society of the 21st century the book forms part of the popular series great thinkers in 60 minutes
