kashibo kakataibo is the westernmost panoan language and therefore the one closest to the andes mountains in terms of its typological profile kashibo kakataibo is a mainly postpositional and agglutinating language with a highly synthetic verbal morphology which includes a highly complex tense system with several markers some of which also express aspectual meanings kashibo kakataibo presents a mixed prosodic system which combines stress and tone features in addition like with other pano languages kashibo kakataibo exhibits a number of transitivity related issues of high typological interest first of all the language shows an extremely complex system of grammatical relations which includes tripartite ergative accusative neutral and one horizontal alignment types in addition the language exhibits a fascinating interaction between syntactic case and pragmatic function there are two fixed syntactic classes of verbs transitive and intransitive a verb root base can only change its class by means of explicit morphological derivation with only 4 ambitransitive verbs in the whole language as in other panoan languages the transitivity class of the main verb is morphologically indicated throughout the clause by means of complex systems of agreement and harmony some of which are totally new even from a panoan perspective
