Stepping Stones 2021-11-18 this book tells the story of teaching kathakali a seventeenth century indian dance drama to contemporary performers in australia a rigorous analysis and detailed documentation of the teaching of multiple learners in melbourne both in the group workshop mode and one on one combined with the author's ethnographic research in india leads to a unique insight into what the author argues persuasively is at the heart of the art's aesthetic a practical realisation of the theory of rasa as first articulated in the ancient sanskrit treatise on drama the natyashastra the research references the latest discoveries in neuroscience on mirror neurons and argues for a reconceptualization of kathakali's imitative methodology advancing it from the reductive category of mimicry to a more contemporary and complex mirroring which is where its value lies in australian actor performer training the teaching of kathakali in australia will be of great interest to students and scholars of theatre and dance intercultural actor training practice led research and interdisciplinary studies of neuroscience and performance

The Teaching of Kathakali in Australia 2020-10-29 this edited volume situates its contemporary practice in the tradition which emerged at the beginning of the twentieth century collective creation in contemporary performance examines collective and devised theatre practices internationally and demonstrates the prevalence breadth and significance of modern collective creation

Collective Creation in Contemporary Performance 2013-08-28 hijikata tatsumi's explosive 1959 debut forbidden colors sparked a new genre of performance in japan butoh an art form of contrasts by turns shocking and serene since then though interest has grown exponentially and people all over the world are drawn to butoh's ability to enact paradox and contradiction audiences are less knowledgeable about the contributions and innovations of the founder of butoh hijikata tatsumi and butoh traces the rollicking history of the creation and initial maturation of butoh and locates hijikata's performances within the intellectual cultural and economic ferment of japan from the sixties to the eighties

Hijikata Tatsumi and Butoh 2012-01-30 dah theatre a sourcebook is a collection of essays about the work of one of the most successful and innovative performance groups in contemporary history with a direct line of descent from jerzy grotowski and eugenio barba dah theatre founded during the worst of times in the former yugoslavia amidst a highly patriarchal society predominantly run by women has thrived now for twenty five years the chapters in this book for the most part have been written by both theatre scholars and practitioners all of whom have either seen studied with or worked with this groundbreaking troupe

what makes dah so exceptional the levels of innovation and passion for them extend far beyond the world of mere performance they have been politically and socially driven by the tragedies and injustices that they have witnessed within their country and have worked hard to be a force of reconciliation equity and peace within the world and those efforts which began on the dangerous streets of belgrade in 1991 today have reached throughout the world though they still make their home in serbia audiences from as far afield as new zealand mongolia brazil and the u s have discovered their power both in purely aesthetic terms and as passionate activists

DAH Theatre 2016-05-19 this book is a historical study of the use of asian theatre for modern western theatre as practiced by its founding fathers including aurélien lugné poe adolphe appia gordon craig w b yeats jacques copeau charles dullin antonin artaud v e meyerhold sergei eisenstein and bertolt brecht it investigates the theories and practices of these leading figures in their transnational and cross cultural relationship with asian theatrical traditions and their interpretations and appropriations of the asian traditions in their reactional struggles against the dominance of commercialism and naturalism from the historical and aesthetic perspectives of traditional asian theatres it approaches this intercultural phenomenon as a euro centred process of displacement of the aesthetically and culturally differentiated asian theatrical traditions and of their historical differences and identities looking into the displaced and distorted mirror of asian theatre the founding fathers of modern western theatre saw in their imagination of the ghostly other nothing but a self reflection or more precisely a self projection and emplacement of their competing ideas and theories preconceived for the construction and the future development of modern western theatre

The Use of Asian Theatre for Modern Western Theatre 2018-11-27 encountering ensemble is a text for students teachers researchers and practitioners who wish to develop a deeper understanding of the history conceptual foundations and practicalities of the world of ensemble theatre it is the first book to draw together definitions and practitioner examples making it a cutting edge work on the subject encountering ensemble combines historical and contemporary case studies with a wide range of approaches and perspectives it is written collaboratively with practitioners and members from the academic community and is divided into three sections 1 introduction and an approach to training ensembles 2 practitioner case studies and analysis of specific practical approaches to training ensembles or individuals in an ensemble context 3 succinct perspectives from practitioners reflecting on a range of questions including what is an ensemble the place of ensemble in the contemporary theatre landscape and training issues

Encountering Ensemble 2013-08-29 new theatre quarterly provides an international forum where theatrical scholarship and practice can meet and where prevailing dramatic assumptions can be subjected to vigorous critical questioning

Analyzing Performance 2003 the beginning actor will find here the tools to prepare for a life on stage and the experienced performer will appreciate techniques that will turn good performances into great ones

Body Voice Imagination 2002 david zinder s body voice imagination is written by one of the master teachers of the michael chekhov technique of acting training this book is a comprehensive course of exercises devoted to the development of actors creative expressivity comprising both pre chekhov imagework training and seminal exercises of the chekhov technique it also details the way in which these techniques can be applied to performance through a discovery of the profound connections between the actor s body imagination and voice

Body Voice Imagination 2013-10-15 how to design a world in which we rely less on stuff and more on people we re filling up the world with technology and devices but we ve lost sight of an important question what is this stuff for what value does it add to our lives so asks author john thackara in his new book in the bubble designing for a complex world these are tough questions for the pushers of technology to answer our economic system is centered on technology so it would be no small matter if tech ceased to be an end in itself in our daily lives technology is not going to go away but the time to discuss the end it will serve is before we deploy it not after we need to ask what purpose will be served by the broadband communications smart materials wearable computing and connected appliances that we re unleashing upon the world we need to ask what impact all this stuff will have on our daily lives who will look after it and how in the bubble is about a world based less on stuff and more on people thackara describes a transformation that is taking place now not in a remote science fiction future it s not about as he puts it the schlock of the new but about radical innovation already emerging in daily life we are regaining respect for what people can do that technology can t in the bubble describes services designed to help people carry out daily activities in new ways many of these services involve technology ranging from body implants to wide bodied jets but objects and systems play a supporting role in a people centered world the design focus is on services not things and new principles above all lightness inform the way these services are designed and used at the heart of in the bubble is a belief informed by a wealth of real world examples that ethics and responsibility can inform design decisions without impeding social and technical innovation

In the Bubble 2006-02-17 this is the first volume to provide a detailed introduction to some of the main areas of research and practice in the interdisciplinary field of art and neuroscience with contributions from neuroscientists theatre scholars and artists from seven countries it offers a rich and rigorous array of perspectives as a springboard to further exploration divided into four parts each prefaced by an expert editorial

introduction it examines theatre as a space of relationships a neurocognitive perspective the spectator s performative experience and embodied teatrology the complexity of theatre and human cognition interdisciplinary perspectives on applied performance each part includes contributions from international pioneers of interdisciplinarity in theatre scholarship and from neuroscientists of world renown researching the physiology of action the mirror neuron mechanism action perception space perception empathy and intersubjectivity while illustrating the remarkable growth of interest in the performing arts for cognitive neuroscience this volume also reveals the extraordinary richness of exchange and debate born out of different approaches to the topics

Theatre and Cognitive Neuroscience 2016-02-25 the invisible city explores urban spaces from the perspective of a traveller writer and creator of theatre to illuminate how cities offer travellers and residents theatrical visions while also remaining mostly invisible beyond the limits of attention the book explores the city as both stage and content in three parts firstly it follows in pattern italo calvino s novel invisible cities wherein marco polo describes cities to the mongol emperor kublai khan to produce a constellation of vignettes recalling individual cities through travel writing and engagement with artworks secondly gillette traces the teatro potlach group and its ongoing immersive site specific performance project invisible cities which has staged performances in dozens of cities across europe and the americas the final part of the book offers useful exercises for artists and travellers interested in researching their own invisible cities written for practitioners travellers students and thinkers interested in the city as site and source of performance the invisible city mixes travelogue with criticism and cleverly combines philosophical meditations with theatrical pedagogy

The Invisible City 2020-04-23 this book explores new developments in the dialogues between science and theatre and offers an introduction to a fast expanding area of research and practice the cognitive revolution in the humanities is creating new insights into the audience experience performance processes and training scientists are collaborating with artists to investigate how our brains and bodies engage with performance to create new understanding of perception emotion imagination and empathy divided into four parts each introduced by an expert editorial from leading researchers in the field this edited volume offers readers an understanding of some of the main areas of collaboration and research 1 dances with science 2 touching texts and embodied performance 3 the multimodal actor 4 affecting audiences throughout its history theatre has provided exciting and accessible stagings of science while contemporary practitioners are increasingly working with scientific and medical material as honour bayes reported in the guardian in 2011 the relationships between theatre science and performance are exciting explosive and unexpected affective performance and cognitive science charts new directions in the relations between disciplines exploring how science and theatre can impact upon each other with reference to training drama texts performance and spectatorship the book assesses the current state of play in this interdisciplinary field facilitating cross disciplinary exchange and preparing the way for future studies

Affective Performance and Cognitive Science 2013-12-05 this book explores the intersection between apophaticism negative theology and performance while apophaticism in literature and critical theory may have had its heyday in the heady debates about negative theology and deconstruction in the 1990s negative ways of knowing and speaking have continued to structure conversations in theatre and performance studies around issues of embodiment the non and post human objects archives the ethics of otherness in intercultural research and the unreadable and inaccessible in the work of minority artists a great part of the history of apophaticism lies in mystic literature with the rise of the new age movement which claimed historical mysticism as part of its genealogy apophaticism has often been sidelined as spirituality rather than serious study this book argues that the apophatic continues to exert a strong influence on the discourse and culture of western literature and especially performance and that by reassessing this ancient form of negative epistemology artists scholars students and teachers alike can more deeply engage forms of unknowing through what cannot be said and cannot be represented in language on the stage and in every aspect of social life

Performance Studies and Negative Epistemology 2017-10-12 this book discusses affective practices in performance through the study of four contemporary performers keith hennessy ilya noé caro novella and duskin drum to suggest a tentative rhetoric of performativity generating political affect and permeating attempts at social justice that are often anterior to discourse the first part of the book makes a case for the political work done alongside discourse by performers practising with materials that are not known in ways that are directly relevant to people carrying out their daily lives in the second part of the book four case study chapters circle around figures of irresolvable paradox hendiadys enthymeme anecdote allegory that gesture to what is not known to study strategies for processes of becoming knowing and valuing these figures also shape some elements of these performances that make up a suggested rhetorical stance for performativity

Politics of Practice 2019-10-17 this book interrogates anew the phenomenon of tradition in a dialogical debate with a host of western thinkers and critical minds in contrast to the predominantly western approaches which look at traditions western and non western from a predominantly western modernist perspective this book interrogates from an intercultural perspective the transnational and transcultural consecration translation re invention and displacement of traditions theatrical and cultural in the aesthetic political movement of twentieth century theatre and performance as exemplified in the case studies of this book it looks at the question of traditions and modernities at the centre of this aesthetic political space as modernities interculturally evoke and are haunted by traditions and as traditions are interculturally refracted reconstituted refunctioned and reinvented it also looks at the applicability of its intercultural perspective on tradition to the historical avant garde in general postmodern postcolonial and postdramatic theatre and performance and to the twentieth century classical intercultural theatre and the twenty first century new interculturalisms in theatre and performance to conclude it looks at the future of tradition in the ecology of our globalized theatrum mundi and considers two important interrelated concepts future tradition and intercultural tradition this book will be of great interest to students and scholars in performance studies

The Spectre of Tradition and the Aesthetic-Political Movement of Theatre and Performance 2022-10-25 the book comprises a series of contributions by international scholars and practitioners from different backgrounds researching in the fields of contemporary visual culture and performance studies this collection addresses the issue of corporeality as a discursive field which asks for a poetics and the possible ways in which technology affects and is affected by the body in the context of recent artistic and theoretical developments the common denominator of the contributions here is their focus on the relationship between body and image expressed as the connection between reality and fiction presence and absence private and public physical and virtual the essays cover a wide range of topics within a framework that integrates and emphasises recent artistic practices and current academic debates in the fields of performance studies visual arts new aesthetics perception theories phenomenology and media theory the book addresses these recent trends by articulating issues including the relationship between immediate experience and mediated image performing the image the body as fictional territory performative idioms and technological expression corporeality presence and memory interactivity as a catalyst for multimediality and remediation visuality performativity and expanded spectatorship and the tensions between public space and intimacy in social media environments the main strength of this volume is the fact that it provides the reader with a fresh insightful and transdisciplinary perspective on the body image relationship an issue widely debated today especially in the context of global artistic and technological transformations

Moving Images, Mobile Bodies 2018-07-27 a comparative survey of the major approaches to western acting since the 19th century
